Relief In Sight After Mercury Hits Low Level

Temperatures Reach Lowest
Mark in 25 Years Through Middle West

50 BELOW AT HUMBOLDT

Cold Responsible for Seven
Fires in Appleton Over
Week End

With the official thermometer at 18 degrees below zero Sunday morning, temperature records in Appleton and vicinity again were broken for the season. Many homes were threatened by fire as a result of the extremely cold weather and stoves and furnaces forced beyond capacity caused the fire department to go out seven times during the weekend, as recounted elsewhere in this issue. Only one of the fires caused any marked loss, however.

Monday brought relief, however, as the thermometer again climbed above the zero mark. There were indications that the cold of the night would be less severe and probable light snow is predicted for tonight and Tuesday.

Chicago cites the weekend weather as the coldest since 1899 and the temperature records of many other places were broken. Deaths and fires were reported as the toll of subzero conditions in many parts of the country. Appleton's 18-degree record was mild, however, compared to that of Humboldt, Mich., which was the coldest place in the country Sunday at 50 below.

Schlafers Hardware company's official thermometer registered 18 degrees below zero Sunday morning, the coldest point attained. The previous low temperature this month was 16 below. Some points in the rural section reported 20 degrees and more. The mercury rose 13 degrees by afternoon Sunday, registering 5 below. It dropped another degree toward evening and then began ascending during the night. Monday morning's record was 2 below and by noon it was 9 above.

Chicago—Gradual relaxation from the rigidity which tumbled temperatures to low records for 25 years over much of the country was forecast for Monday and Tuesday, although from the Rocky mountains eastward winter retained a stern grip.

After receding to minus 13, within three degrees of a record for a quarter of a century, the thermometer at Chicago had climbed to plus 5 early Monday, that being indicative of the changes over the zero-swept areas.

A dozen deaths were added to the winter's toll, six in Chicago, three in Portland, Ore., and one each in Taos, N. Mex., Reno, Nev., and Indianapolis, Ind.

Humboldt, Mich., a high spot in the northern peninsula, had the doubtful honor of reporting the lowest temperature in the United States Sunday, 50 below zero. Other central western states contiguous to Michigan, which, however, being trailed by New England, which Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire reported thermometer readings of generally of minus 8 to minus 20.

COLDEST IN 27 YEARS
In Illinois, Harrisburg with 31 below zero, had its coldest weather in 27 years; Bloomington with minus 20, its coldest in 25 years and Peoria reported 24 degrees below zero. Indiana had readings of from 10 below to 22 below over the state. Farther west Iowa had numerous cities with double figures below zero after precipitate drops of more than 50 degrees in 86 hours. Des Moines felt a chill of 31 below. Cedar Rapids 28 below. Fort Dodge 26 below, and Red Oak minus 24. St. Louis, Mo., on the Mississippi river, had 8 below, and at the other end of the state, at the edge of the windswept Kansas prairies, Kansas City was two degrees colder.

New York City thermometers receded to 13 above zero Sunday morning although updates it ranged as low as 26 degrees below zero.

For the first time in years, an ice jam was reported in Niagara river below the falls this early in the winter. A 16-foot thick jam extended from horseshoe falls almost to Lake Ontario. In Lake St. Clair and its connecting link, the Detroit river, ice jams proved serious hazards for ferry and steamer navigation and several boats were caught in the ice.

NEYSA McMEIN, ARTIST, IS MOTHER OF DAUGHTER

New York—Neysa McMein, otherwise Mrs. John C. Baragwanath, the illustrator, has created what she regards as the most adorable girl of her career.

Little Neysa—for that is what Miss McMein's friends believe the baby will be named—was born Sunday. She weighs 8½ pounds and, according to her mother, who has judged many beauty contests, is a very beautiful young baby.

Miss McMein is expected soon to return to her studio, which she deserted only Saturday afternoon.

Heirs Cleared By Autopsy

Investigating the death of William H. McClintock, millionaire orphan, Chicago authorities disinterred the body and experts failed to find traces of poison. This clears the names of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Shepherd, Albuquerque, N. M., who inherited the bulk of McClintock's fortune, estimated at $20,000,000. Shepherd plans to bring his goalmasters before a grand jury in an effort to further clear his name.

Shifting Wind Brings Hope Of Release To Carferry Held By Ice

By Associated Press

Grand Haven, Mich.—Prospects for releasing the Pere Marquette carferry No. 19, aground north of the harbor here since Friday, appeared brighter, according to officers of the United States Coast Guard. The wind having diminished and shifted to the southeast, much of the ice that surrounded the big ferry on Saturday and Sunday had moved out Monday morning and the sea was comparatively quiet.

P. J. Johnson, assistant superintendent of the local coast guard station, said Monday morning that either the wrecking tug W. E. Meyer, expected from Milwaukee, or another carferry with a steel cable probably could get the "19" into open water some time Monday. Two attempts to pull the ferry out on Saturday failed when a huge hawser gotten aboard by the carferry Milwaukee snapped off. Two members of the crew of the "19" walked ashore over the ice Sunday, spent a few hours in town and returned to the vessel.

CREW PLAYS CARDS
They said their mates aboard were quite comfortable and adequately supplied with provisions. A few cards games, they said furnished diversion aboard the vessel.

Spain J. E. Thorpe, of Ludington, regular master of the "19" arrived here Sunday and took charge of his vessel. The ferry had been in charge of Captain C. F. Johnson of Milwaukee during Captain Thorpe's absence.

The "19" carrying 25 Grand Trunk freight cars, went aground shortly before noon Friday while enroute from this port to Milwaukee.

She encountered a heavy sea immediately upon clearing the north pier here and the wind sent her ashore. When preliminary efforts to free her failed, the crew immediately let water into her compartments to prevent her from pounding to pieces. During that night the wind shifted and the big ship swung around broadside to the shore in which position she remained, the hull up of ice wedging her in more solidly.

The "19" has a crew of 44 aboard, but no passengers.

Holland, Mich.—Caught in a heavy slush ice blown in by the west wind of Saturday night and Sunday, the Goodrich Co. steamer Wisconsin, which left here Saturday night for Chicago was only six miles out from this port Monday morning. The ice swept in from the lake blocked the Wisconsin's progress as she reached a point between the two piers forming the mouth of Black Lake.

Coast guards reported the vessel in no danger and said that the steam or Alabama of the same line, standing half a mile distant, probably would break a way through for the Wisconsin's progress as she reached a point between the two piers forming the mouth of Black Lake.

PRUSSIAN BANKER
HELD FOR LOSSES

Berlin—Discovery that the capital reserve of the Prussian State bank, totaling 13,000,000 marks, is exceeded by its liabilities, led Monday to the arrest of the head director, Fritz Ruehe, on the charge of "continued infidelity" resulting in the bank's loss.

The arrest comes as a climax to a series of disclosures regarding doubtful operation in the bank, founded in 1772. The rumors of irregularities assumed definite shape when one Kretschmer confessed to receiving credits of 15,000,000 marks without giving proper security.

Secretary Hughes Will Be Chief
Speaker at Opening of Convention

By Associated Press

Washington, D. C.—With the formal opening set for Monday night delegates to the annual convention of the American Association for the Advancement of Science had plenty to occupy them during the earlier hours Monday, with business meetings, registration and renewal of friendship. Few of Monday's meetings were called for the consideration of scientific papers however, although they will consume most of the remaining time of the convention.

Secretary Hughes will be the principal speaker at the formal opening Monday night, discussing "some aspects of international cooperation."

Dr. Esme Howard of the British Association and affiliated organizations at a separate meeting. The Ambassador's subject will be "British policy and the balance of power."

Dr. J. McKen Cattell, the incoming president of the science association, will preside at Monday night's general opening session and Dr. Charles D. Walcott, secretary of the Smithsonian Institute and retiring president of the organization, will speak on "Science and service."

The session will be followed by a general reception to members.

The meeting is the largest annual assemblage of scientists in the United States and the present session promises to break all records for attendance. More than 40 scientific and learned societies affiliated in the association are holding separate meetings during the week. Nearly every phase of pure or applied science is represented in their membership.

An outstanding feature of the convention is the number of women scientists in attendance. Many of them are down for papers on varied topics, and special arrangements for their entertainment have been made by local women's organizations.

GAS CLAIMS LIVES OF 13
NEW YORKERS IN ONE DAY

New York—Four persons were killed here Sunday by illuminating gas, making a total of 13 deaths from the same cause within 24 hours. Six other persons are seriously ill in hospitals from gas fumes.

Two of the four victims, a man and wife, were thought to have died when one of them accidentally turned on the gas jet before retiring. Another was overcome by a gas heater in his bedroom.

John Harbeck, an earlier victim of gas fumes, is still in a serious condition. He was the sole survivor of his family Saturday, when illuminating gas killed his wife, two daughters and his brother-in-law.

New York—Coney Island, famous amusement resort, was threatened with destruction Monday afternoon by a fire which started on the board walk, had enveloped an entire block before the arrival of all fire fighting equipment in Brooklyn and part of Queens.

Fire alarms were turned in when the flames driven by a high wind ate their way along the board walk, destroyed four bath houses and spread to a row of unoccupied bungalows.

FRANCE LACKS INTENTION TO PAY WAR DEBT

Paris Seeks Better Terms Than Britain Because of Great
Loss of Men

WILL DEMAND MORATORIUM
Unwillingness to Meet Obligations Is Cause of Diplomatic Mixups

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1924 by the Post Pub. Co.

Washington, D. C.—France has no serious intention of paying America in the immediate future anything on war debts.

This fact more than anything else is responsible for the series of mix-ups and misunderstandings which diplomacy is trying to iron out as between the French government and Washington.

Ambassador Jusserand who is retiring soon with the best record of friendship and personal popularity that any envoy has achieved in a generation naturally wanted to do something before he left to clear up the only unsettled problem between France and the United States. The French government in Paris also realized that it was a long time since France had sent Mr. Parmentier to discuss the question of debts and that the United States couldn't play the part of a pressing bill collector. Congress had become restive too and the French government decided that discussion was at least a sign of good intention.

REDUCE IS INFERRED
Mr. Jusserand took up the question with the War Debt commission created by congress and expressed to that body in recent conferences substantially the same view which he expounded in a speech last week. The White House was asked by the correspondents for a comment on that speech and it was pointed out that there could be comment only on what was said to the funding commission after that organization had taken up the matter in due course. The newspaper men drew the inference that a rebuke was being given the French ambassador for talking in public speeches instead of making an argument to the funding commission. And when the press reported the inference the White House disclaimed such an intention. Indeed, it was discovered that the French ambassador had been saying the same things to the funding commission, but whether the reports of his conversations had been made to the president by last Tuesday was published is not yet clear.

FAIL TO CONSIDER DEBT
The contention is being made repeatedly by France that owing to the large sacrifices she made of blood as well as treasure she should not be expected to pay anything like the terms America wants. Indeed, the French have never counted the debt to America as a part of their budget of expenses and have made no provision either for interest or sinking fund. This has not created a very good impression in congress. Also the international bankers who are called upon to persuade the American investor from time to time to buy French government securities are anxious to see the French placed in the best light possible. The funding commission naturally expected some concrete proposals from France but it has been none the less.

French ambassador only has the power to discuss and create a favorable sentiment, if possible for a moratorium or easier terms than Great Britain secured.

CLAIMS PREFERENCE
The French viewpoint is that America was a belated participant in the war and that none of the allied and associated powers made the sacrifice that France did, hence the United States should make due allowance. If America does, then the French would expect the British to do likewise.

The French are talking about having Secretary Mellon go to Europe after congress adjourns in March so that they may explain to him first-hand why they can't pay more money. This suggestion is not making a bit just now for the usual custom is for the debtor to call on the creditor.

In France, however, there is an objection to sending a commission to America unless it can propose some sort of a settlement that will be acceptable.

Judge Holds M'Coy Jury For Verdict

By Associated Press

Los Angeles, Calif.—The jury sitting in the trial of Kid McCoy, former pugilist, for the murder of Mrs. Theresa Mora last August, was instructed to continue its deliberations instead of being discharged when it failed to reach a verdict at the opening of Superior Judge Charles R. Crall's court here Monday.

Judge Crall had announced that if the jury which has been out since last Friday had not come to a decision by Monday morning he would discharge it and set a date for a new trial of the case.

Monday, however, the judge sent the nine women and three men back to their privacy and said he would leave them with the evidence "until they ring for me."

The jury foreman announced Sunday night that the vote stood "ten to two" but did not indicate what verdict the majority favored.

Senate Faces Unanswered
Problem in Muscle Shoals
Legislation

By Associated Press

Washington, D. C.—Congress after a week's recess, put Yuletide thoughts behind Monday. In the house leaders plan to promise to keep it in high gear from now until adjournment of the session on March 4.

The senate still faced an unanswered problem in Muscle Shoals, which holds right of way there, with the house resuming work on an appropriation bill. The senate had counted off and sent to the senate to leave the treasury-postoffice bill next in line for house action. Its passage there this week will clear the way for the army supply bill.

In the office on the senate program is the calling up of the president's veto of the postal salary in the house. Leaders plan to dispose of a vote on Tuesday, Jan. 6. Meanwhile, hearings on the administration postal rate increase bill which leaders hope to have ready for the senate by that date will continue before the joint committee.

Although the senate has yet to take up any of the appropriation bills sent from the house, their consideration in committee has begun and leaders believe by speedy action the senate can catch up during the less than ten weeks remaining of the session.

The senate also is pledged to take action before the winding of the session on the Isle of Pines treaty. In the house leaders plan to dispose next month of the Al-Fadden burling bill and perhaps the rivers and harbors authorization measure, along with appropriation bills which will continue to have priority.

Jury, He Says

TYPHOID SOLE DEATH CAUSE
Foster Father of McClintock Remains in Chicago to Clear Reputation

By Associated Press

Chicago—While states attorneys awaited the report of doctors who examined the exhumed body of William Nelson McClintock to determine as far as science can tell the exact cause of the youthful millionaire orphan's death, William D. Shepherd, foster father and heir of the dead youth, announced his plans for legal vindication and for ultimate disposal of the fortune.

Shepherd last week hurriedly returned to Chicago from Albuquerque, N. M., when inquiry into McClintock's death was ordered by Chief Justice Harry Olson of municipal court several days after the burial of McClintock, who was supposed to have died of typhoid fever. McClintock died Dec. 4.

Shepherd asserted that he will ask State's Attorney Crowe to seek the indictment of persons whom he names only as "my traducers," that he will destroy the fatal hoodoo that seemingly rests upon his million dollar legacy by separating it into several funds which upon the death of himself and his wife may be used for the betterment of mankind, and that he will provide a trust fund from which Miss Isabelle Pope, McClintock's fiancée, may receive $8,000 yearly during her life, after which the fund may be divided among several charities.

Doctors William M. McNally, William H. Burmeister and Ludwig Jackson Sunday night had progressed to the point in their examination of the contents of the dead youth's stomach to bring an official announcement that as far as had been determined typhoid fever alone was the death.

ADMITTS CAMERAMEN
Shepherd Sunday admitted newspaper photographers to his home where McClintock died, asking them especially to take pictures of the room the boy occupied because of the change that his late ward had been compelled to sleep in a cubbyhole above the kitchen.

"So far as I am concerned," Shepherd said in a statement Sunday, "the state's attorneys' investigation of me is dead. I will wait, however, until the officials are finished. Then I intend to clear my name."

"My traducers have circulated the most unbelievable slanders against me. In intent to prove them false, a civil suit might drag along for two or three years, and I want speedier justice."

"I am not seeking vengeance. I am not seeking money. I want only simple honesty and to prevent being accused of bringing suit for money instead of vindication. I want the matter handled by a grand jury. There lies my moral remedy."

"There should be the basis of indictments for criminal libel in the scurrilous inferences, innuendoes and implications circulated against me. I have no criticism of State's Attorney Crowe or Coroner Wolff, for investigating or of the newspapers for publishing the fact that investigation was being made of these calumnies. I want to be cleared beyond even reproach."

TAXPAYERS RUSH TO CITY HALL TO SETTLE ACCOUNTS

Lots of People Pay Taxes on First Day but Amount Will Be Small

Collection of taxes was begun in the office of Fred E. Bachman, city treasurer, Monday morning with a steady crowd of taxpayers streaming in. When the doors were opened at 9 o'clock ten persons were on hand ready to settle their accounts with the city. As these were served others quickly took their place so that all morning there were from 10 to 20 persons in line.

Miss Martha Kransusch, was, as usual, the first person to pay taxes. The check was received by mail. She learned the amount of her tax as she is employed in the assessor's in comes office.

John Court who assisted the city treasurer in the tax collection work two years ago is again waiting on the taxpayers with Mr. Bachman.

The amount of taxes to be collected Monday was not expected to be very large, for the bulk of the tax money usually comes in during the last few days of the tax collection period. Those paying real estate taxes are urged to take their last year's tax receipts as these contain a description of the property. Street addresses are not of much help in identifying properties; the description of the lot, block, addition and ward is desired.

ROTARIANS TAKE IN THREE NEW MEMBERS

Three new members will be received into Appleton Rotary club at the regular meeting at 12:15 Tuesday noon in Conway hotel. They are H. C. Humphrey, Stephen Rosebush and A. P. Everett. No other program has been arranged.

Miss Edna Neuman of Milwaukee, returned Sunday after visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Neuman, 1071 Fifth-st., for a few days. She is employed by the Wisconsin News.

SWINDLER TRIES TO SELL BADGER PLANT

"Yellow Kid" Well in Jail Following Scheme to Mulct Manufacturer

Cincinnati—Joseph Well, "The Yellow Kid," was arrested in a cabaret here Sunday morning in connection with the swindling of H. I. Kutter, Hamilton, O., manufacturer, of $38,000.

"The Yellow Kid" was without his familiar flaxen beard when officers found him with a young woman. Well wore dinner clothes and waited in the police station several hours until his brother brought him a business suit before he retired to a cell. He said he had shaved off the beard so that old acquaintances would not recognize him and so that he could carry on a legitimate business enterprise, "which gives me an income of about $9,000 a year."

Well was arrested on a warrant charging him with posing as "Dr. James R. Warrington," friend of Gustav Stresemann, German foreign minister in defrauding Kutter.

According to police, Well went to Cincinnati last summer, where he posed as a gentleman of culture and leisure. He met Mr. Kutter, Mr. Kutter he impressed with a swaggle display of currency and letters from leading American financiers and prominent European statesmen. He then is alleged to have proposed to the Hamilton manufacturer that a Wisconsin paper mill be purchased but the deal fell through.

Well followed this with a suggestion that a fortune could be obtained by buying hidden stocks of big corporations at unusually low sums and reselling them to the Morgan and other brokerage houses. It was in contributing toward the purchase of a set of such stocks from a Waukegan, Ill., contractor that Mr. Kutter was supposed to have lost his money. "Dr. Warrington" had only $282,000 and the contractor wanted $500,000, so the Ohio manufacturer is alleged to have supplied the deficiency.

According to information received here, the Badger plant which Well endeavored to sell was the Appleton property of the Kimberly-Clark Co.

FROZEN WATER METERS KEEP DEPARTMENT BUSY

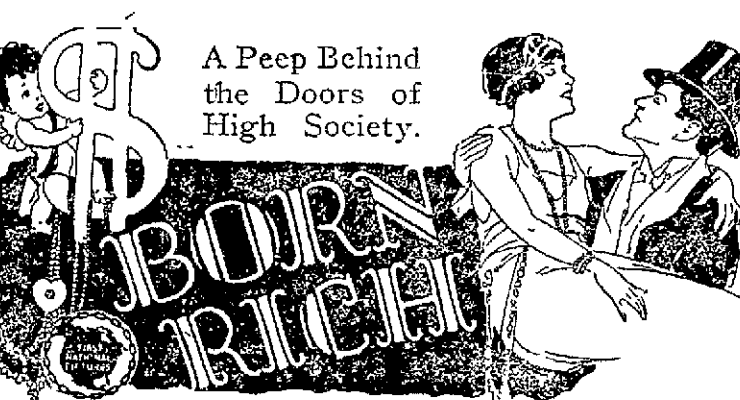

Ten days of subzero weather have kept employees of the water department busy investigating complaints about frozen meters. Every day of continued cold brings in new complaints, but in general the number of freezing meters is not so large as in former years. This is partly due to reported warnings about keeping basement pipes protected against cold. Except in cases where the freezing of the pipes and meter was unavoidable, a small charge is made for repairs. This fact also has added to the caution of water consumers.

Miss Rose Hoppe visited friends in New London over the weekend. Miss Dorothy Mortensen, who is attending Marquette university, returned to Milwaukee Sunday after spending a few days' vacation here.

Fire Department Has Only One
Bad Blaze to Fight

This weekend, like the preceding one, kept the firemen busy. Seven alarms were answered from Saturday morning until Monday morning. Six of them were of no great consequence, three being chimney fires, but a fire at a stucco residence at 429 Winnebago-st. at 9:25 Saturday morning caused considerable damage. The Winnebago-st. fire got a quick start and spread rapidly so that when the firemen received the call the house was burning at both the east and west ends. The blaze started in some unknown manner in the cellar-way and burned through a partition at the kitchen. From there the flames spread through the ceiling to the second floor. Practically all the furniture that could not be removed from the building was damaged or destroyed. Very little was taken out.

FAMILY UPSTAIRS

The house was occupied by Mrs. Mary Dambach and her parents, but is the property of John B. Kent, master of Green Bay. The occupants were upstairs at the time the fire started and therefore were unaware of the blaze below.

Flames spread rapidly aided by a strong gale and weather registering 10 degrees below zero. The heat of the fire became so intense that it was quite impossible to rescue much of the furniture. While the shell of the house still remains, considerable reconstruction work will be necessary. The fire burned through to the attic.

All other fires were essentially cold weather fires. While a frozen water pipe at the home of Mrs. Lena Ashman, 898 Superior-st., was being thawed out with a blow torch, a fire started in the basement.

GIVEN NO REST

The blaze here was put out, however, without the use of streams from the fire hose. Pails of water were used. The call came at 11 o'clock Saturday morning, just as the firemen had returned from the Winnebago-st. fire.

A rusty smokepipe in the boiler room of the Market Garden company plant at 377 Second-ave at 6:15 Saturday evening was responsible for a fire there. No damage resulted, however.

Chimney fires occurred at the homes of Ray Heermann, 290 Bridge-st., at 6:30 Saturday evening, at Fraser Lumber company 727 Superior-st. at 5:30 Sunday night, at the home of Carl VanDinter 758 State-st. at 5:30 Monday morning. Early Saturday morning the firemen answered a call to the Fire Works, but no fire occurred there. Low pressure in the sprinkler system caused the alarm to trip.

DEATHS

MRS. CATHERINE WEIMAR
Mrs. Catherine Weimar, widow of Edmund Weimar, died Sunday evening at her home, 110 Weimar-st. She had been a resident of this city for 50 years. She is survived by two sons, William and Louis, Appleton; three daughters, the Misses Anna and Milly Weimar and Mrs. Andrew Grieshaber, Appleton; one brother and one sister in Milwaukee. Four grandchildren and two great grandchildren also survived. Funeral announcement will be made later.

WILLIAM ULRICH
William Ulrich, 64, died Monday morning at his home, 883 Lake-st. He was born in Germany and came to this country 45 years ago, settling at Neenah. He had lived in Appleton for 40 years. He is survived by his widow; one brother, Fred, Detroit, Mich.; two sisters, Mrs. William Loehring and Mrs. Emil Shoetsch, Neenah. He was a member of Sacred Heart church, Holy Name society, Sacred Heart society and St. Joseph society. Funeral announcement will be made later.

McGINNIS FUNERAL

The funeral of Dan McGinnis, who died Friday night at his home in Milwaukee, was held at 8:30 Monday morning at St. Mary church. Interment took place in St. Mary cemetery. The body had been brought to Appleton Sunday and taken to the home of his brother, James McGinnis, 1021 Third-st. Bearers were George P. McGillan, John Burke, Joseph McCarthy, Patrick Vaughn, E. C. Otto and Michael Kerrigan.

GRAPENGLER FUNERAL
The funeral of Henry Grapengleser, who died Friday noon at the home of his son Ferdinand, 1196 Franklin-st., was held at 1:30 Monday from the home and at 2 o'clock at Zion Lutheran church. Burial took place in Greenville cemetery. The Rev. Theodore Marth was in charge. Bearers were Frank Schuize, Louis Dau, Fred Weltzien, Herman Fleck, Gustave Mantouel and John Krueger.

BIRTHS

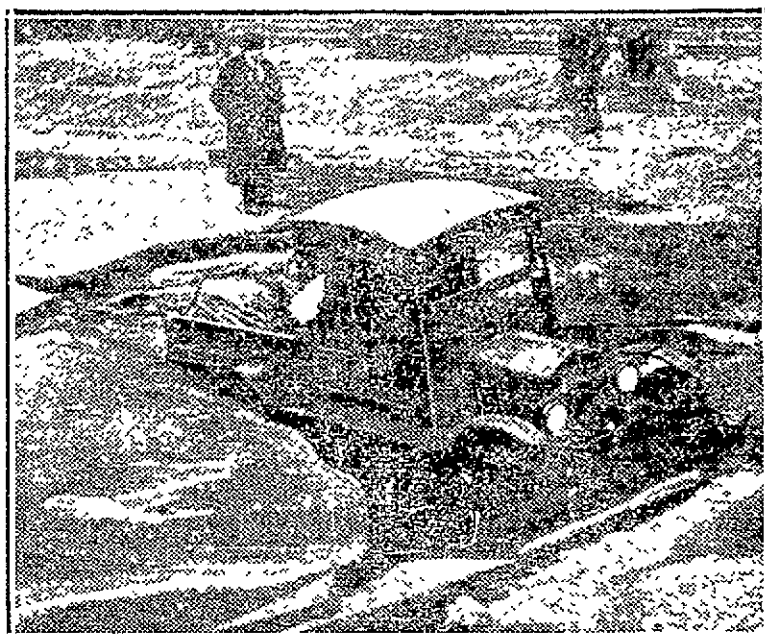

Word has been received of the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence C. Learned at Pekin, Ill. Mrs. Learned formerly was Miss Winifred A. Taft of Whitewater.

A son was born Sunday morning to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Theodor, 756 Jawest.

Speeder Fined

Officer John Kobson Sunday night arrested Oscar Rasmussen of Appleton who was driving a Ford coupe on Prospect-st. at 35 miles an hour, according to the charge. A fine of $10 plus $4.20 in costs was paid in municipal court Monday morning.

IT ISN'T AN EARTHQUAKE!

Looks like an earthquake. But it isn't. It's part of the havoc wrought by the bursting of a 36-inch water main in downtown Cincinnati. Cellars were flooded 10 blocks away. The automobile in the hole is a water work's service truck. Street lights were out of commission and the driver, unable to see distinctly, drove into the hole. Six men narrowly escaped drowning.

SEEK PORTRAITS MADE BY MORSE

By Associated Press
Philadelphia—It is not generally remembered today that Samuel F. B. Morse, founder of the American system of the magnetic telegraph, was a portrait painter. In his early days, of considerable and deserved reputation. In his generation he was regarded with Gilbert C. Stuart and Thomas Sully as great artist. In later life his inventions in the electric field were of such magnitude that he is associated largely as an inventor in the public mind.

The Art Alliance of Philadelphia has decided to hold an exhibition of the portraits painted by Morse and this will be the first public effort to bring before the American public his artistic achievements. To this end the Alliance is preparing a catalog of Morse's portraits, and endeavoring to make the list complete. It feels there may be a number of his pictures in the country of which it has as yet no record.

The exhibition probably will be held in Philadelphia as soon as the Morse portraits can be located and assembled.

POLES ESCAPE SERVICE WITH NATIONAL ARMIES

By Associated Press
Warsaw—Walter Fuchs, reputed to be a millionaire, his son and 70 others, including Colonel Zaplanynski, have been arrested, charged with having unlawfully liberated young Poles from compulsory military service. It is said that more than 4400 were thus enabled to escape service.

NATION'S CAPITAL MAY BE BUSINESS CONCLAVE CENTER

Washington Suggested as rendezvous of Commercial World, Report

By Associated Press
Washington—Washington may soon add to its other attainments that of the business meeting center of the country. The recently opened auditorium in the new home of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, its officials here say, will soon become the rendezvous of special lines in the commercial world. They point to the gathering of the Chamber of Commerce secretaries from over the country in the auditorium as the forerunner of the similar conclaves, where business men of kindred interest will discuss their common problems in a home of their own.

As evidence of the diversification of these special units within the national chamber, the organization's roster reveals the varied scope of the activities of Mr. American Business Man. The American Cotton Waste Exchanges, the American Spice Trade Association, The American Tack Manufacturers' Association, the National Selected Morticians, the International Acetylene Association, the Hydraulic Society, the Better Bedding Alliance of America, the National Aircraft Underwriters Association, the Compressed Air Society, the National Association of Taxicab Owners, the Plated Glass Insurance Exchange of New York and the United States

TELEPATHEIST

Prof. Gilbert Murray's telepathic experiments have astounded all England. He has been making them the last 15 years with the aid of his daughter, Mrs. Arnold Toynbee.

Trade-Mark Association appear in the litany of business units.

The national chamber's officials expect that organizations such as these will gather in the auditorium on the first floor of the new "workshop of American business." Thus, they think, will Washington take leadership as the focus point for commercial discussion.

SWEDISH-AMERICAN COMMERCE GROWING

By Associated Press
Stockholm—American imports to Sweden have increased from about 10 per cent of the country's total before the war to 25 per cent for 1923. The 1923 imports amounted to 213,700,000 crowns.

Among the largest imports from the United States are automobiles, which last year amounted to about 23,000,000 crowns in value, while petroleum and tires imported represented twice that sum.

Ten Swedish exports to the United States have also increased from about 4 per cent of the total Swedish exports in 1913 to 11 per cent last year, amounting to 123,000,000 crowns. Paper, the principal item of export to the United States is now eight times as much as exported in 1913.

MR. COUZENS AS CRUSADER
Mr. Couzens is a true crusader. He is on a continual march to Jerusalem. Neither dragons nor pikes nor the rack have terror for the senator from Michigan. He is going to prove Secretary of the Treasury Mellon a member of the aristocracy and the plutocracy. He has joined the revolution which is to overthrow wealth and punish it for its sins against the citizenry. Whatever Mr. Mellon believes, Senator Couzens disbelieves. Whatever the secretary of the treasury favors, the senator from Michigan opposes. Last year Mr. Couzens challenged Mr. Mellon to a duel, and was so well satisfied in the encounter that he had to retire temporarily for restoration. Now he is back again. He not only wants the kind of publicity of income taxes the present law authorizes, but he wants to go all the way and reveal everything connected with taxpayers' returns.

The idea that publicity of incomes may be detrimental to business, says Mr. Couzens, is all bunk. Competitors get information about their adversaries by hiring away their executives. At least that is what Mr. Couzens says they do in big business. He knows, because that was the practice when he was Mr. Ford's manager. Mr. Couzens was not so anxious to punish business while he was in business. Now that he is in politics he wants to cleanse it and fumigate it, even if it is burned up with the sulphur.

Mr. Couzens is going to stop all evasion of taxation by publicity. It is a great idea. We have had it worked overtime in Wisconsin, but it has made no change here. It is a good device to get votes, but of little use to get taxes. Mr. Couzens is determined to make a name for himself, which is laudible, but we fear he is going to resort too much to harangue. Like Gil Blas' Lauro, when his tongue is wound up, and it is seldom down words seem to cost him nothing.

SUPREME COURT AS ADVISER

Solicitor General James M. Beck makes the proposal that the United States supreme court should cooperate with congress by rendering advice, upon request, as to the constitutionality of proposed legislation. Mr. Beck is a strong constitutionalist. We think he is a strict rather than a liberal constructionist of that instrument. We are inclined to believe from his record that he would resolve doubt about the constitutionality of a law against the law to serve his idealization of the constitution rather than the liberalism that might be embodied in the legislation.

Even if Mr. Beck's suggestion were theoretically sound, we are afraid it has practical objections which are insurmountable. In the first place, we do not believe that congress would be more discreet if it had sound advice. In the second place, we do not believe the supreme court would wish to set itself up as advance arbiter of legislation. There is a vast difference between passing upon the constitutionality of an act while it is being considered in congress and after it has been enacted into law. We think it would be presumptuous for the supreme court to attempt such a function. In the third place, congress should have full latitude in addressing itself to the problems of legislation. There may be circumstances, as Mr. Beck suggests, where the supreme court might be of assistance in advanced opinion, but these instances are very few. Mr. Beck alludes to one case, in which President Monroe inquired of the court whether the federal government had the right to appropriate money to be spent in one state. In cases such as this the court's advance opinion might be had.

"Congress," said Mr. Beck, "which once determined great questions of constitutional law no longer makes any pretense of so doing." This is one reason why the supreme court has been criticized. Congress has yielded to group influence by enacting legislation which its good judgment should have decided immediately was unconstitutional. Would it, being so disposed, condescend to accept and be governed by the opinion of the supreme that a proposed act violated the constitution? We do not think so. Were congress and the supreme court to cooperate, congress might use the court to settle its political difficulties, and in that event the court would be criticized more severely than it has been. The court would cease to be a tribunal and would be congress' buffer.

In most cases the court could not afford to pass on proposed legislation. It might, on the one hand, determine unfavorably on issues which congress should make the subject of laws, and, on the other hand, it would prejudice its impartiality by rendering judgment without due consideration. Counsel and decision would not be the result of full hearing and discussion, as trial brings out facts, contentions and arguments more fully and strongly than the best plain deliveration.

All in all, it would, we think, be better for the supreme court to continue to function strictly and solely as a tribunal. This would be better for the public and the government. Congress has or should have a fair idea concerning constitutionality of legislation, and it should have full liberty of action where there is doubt. Congress should need no advice, as a rule, from the supreme court. The court should, as a rule, leave legislation to congress and administration to the president and his associates.

MEDICAL "SECRETS"

Another widely-heralded secret salve for cancer springs up in Chicago. Many have bought it: some have Coued themselves into believing they are better. The doctor refuses to reveal his formula.

There is one test of a quack of this kind that people fail to apply when they fall for his mysterious offerings. The doctor's profession, for all reputable and conscientious physicians, is a high calling in which it is inconceivable that any member should conceal from the rest a single method or medicine which if generally broadcast might relieve human suffering. That is a part of the physician's code. He demonstrates, if he has a new and successful operation, before a clinic. There are no inventions, no secret patents, in the great war on pain and disease, among men worthy of a place in the ranks.

The cancer salve-seller's secret is a pretty good indication in itself that he's interested, not in cures but in profits: in short, that he's a quack.

TODAY'S POEM
By HAL COCHRAN

THE TALE OF A TREE.
I AM only a staid old Evergreen, but they hacked me and cut me down. I was taken away from my forest scene and then carried into town. On a market floor I reposed a while, then a groceryman came by. He stood me up and he viewed my style with a scrutinizing eye.
Then a ride I had, in an old machine, and when all is done and said, I'll admit I was soon an Evergreen with a price upon my head. They draped me up at the grocery front so that passers-by could see. And a sign upon me said, quite blunt, that a 'buck would purchase me.'
The people came and the people went: then a mother-type drew nigh, and a dollar bill was quickly spent: I was what she wished to buy. In the old machine and away once more was what fate then dealt to me. I was carried up to the buyer's door—and some kiddies laughed in glee.
Now I'm propped up high and quite erect and I'm making kiddies smile. So, after all, when I'm full bedecked, I guess I'm worth while.

WE ALWAYS AGREE WITH MARY.
Do you agree with Mary Garden, a reader inquires, that—
Yes, yes, but what about?
That women should wear as few clothes as possible?

If that is what Mary advocates now, though I suspect the idea grew out of a rumor that the opera queen has been taking sun baths, nevertheless I endorse it as food sound hygiene. Only I should not restrict the privilege of wearing as few clothes as possible to women; it ought to be the privilege of men and children, too.
As few clothes as possible is a phrase which may be variously interpreted, according to the viewpoint, whether this be a question of style or fashion, of custom, of taste, of "decency" or of comfort. Whether the peasant artist really advises any such thing or not, it is a suggestion which hygiene must approve, from the only point of view which especially concerns hygiene, that of comfort. The less clothing we wear under any conditions, consistent with personal comfort, the better for health.

It would be worth while as an educational excursion for all who are obsessed with the morbid notion that any kind or quantity of clothing protects one against disease conditions (except sun, stroke or frostbite) to visit such an institution as the J. N. Adam Memorial Hospital at Perryburg, N. Y., and see the little patients there "taking the air" in their perfectly fitting bronze coats and smiles, smiles, smiles—I have looked many hospitals over from the inside but this wonderful institution at Perryburg had more smiles per hundred patients than any other I have seen. The youngsters not only said they felt warm, but they did feel warm. I felt of 'em and I can testify to that. Of course they have learned how to be comfortable with nothing on, through many months of gradually increasing sun and air baths, beginning with a brief exposure of just the legs, say, from the knees down for five minutes or so at first, and as the tanning increases very gradually increasing the extent and duration of exposure of the skin to the sun. The visitor to such a place, if he understands what is going on, cannot come away with the old obsession that the amount of clothing one wears determines one's comfort.
There is practically no relation between the temperature of the body and the temperature of the surrounding air. That is, the body temperature remains at a constant point whether the surrounding air be hot, warm, temperate, cool or cold.
The kind and quantity of clothing we wear has much less to do with the business of keeping warm than most people imagine. The business of keeping warm is mainly a question of the functional efficiency of the vasomotor system. That is the portion of the autonomic (self governing or "sympathetic") nervous system which controls the distribution of the blood. The morning cold bath habit is one way to train the vasomotor system. Dr. Simon Baruch the greatest apostle of hydrotherapy used to speak of "neuro-muscular training" by means of graduated cold baths—physical culture for the nerve muscle mechanism which keeps us warm. The youngsters at Perryburg get such training, but from air instead of water baths. Therefore, kids get it, if they have the chance, and that is why they do not feel the cold so much as folks imagine the poor waifs do, on raw days in the fall.

From the strictly hygienic point of view, then, the less clothing, consistent with comfort, the better.
QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Coffee Habit.
Before the baby came I got into the habit of eating coffee—chewing the beans. My baby is now 14 months old, and I still crave and eat the coffee. It doesn't satisfy me to drink a cup of coffee; I must chew the beans four or five times a day. Is this a drug habit? Am I weak willed to surrender to it? Will it do me serious harm? (Mrs. P. Y. R.)
Answer.—Yes. Why not chew a harmless substitute, such as wheat (grain), wild rice or brown or red rice (unpolished rice), oatmeal or wheat bran?

Are the children of a man whose parents were both deaf mutes liable to be deaf mutes? The man himself is normal, as were his three brothers and sisters, and the woman he is to marry has a normal family history and is herself normal. (P. C. T.)
Answer.—No.

Along about the first of the year when automobile licenses become due it is well to take the car down to the city scales and have it weighed again. Especially if it has been towed in from collisions and repaired several times since a year ago.

We suppose that the governor will get car license No. 1. And when we consider the thing rightly, we hardly think that is possible. It may be more likely that the secretary of state will reserve that for himself. Wrong again. The secretary will pick out a number for the governor that motorcops will find easy to remember.

Up until now you have wondered whether your car is an asset or a liability. When you fall in line at the city treasurer's office to pay your taxes, you will know what the assessor thinks of your car.

ROTLLO

U. S. Dictionary
Soon In Making
(From The Chicago News.)
All the words spoken or written in America will go into the great Dictionary of American English, work on which will begin at the University of Chicago. Dr. Craigie, who was editor of the Oxford dictionary, is to supervise the making of the American dictionary in Chicago.
A large staff will be called into service. In the early stages trained workers will begin the examination of kind of printed document that may furnish a jewel for the collection—a new word. There will be printed slips on which the words discovered will be recorded. Then will follow a process of sorting, discarding and defining. University authorities do not expect its completion for probably a decade.
The Dictionary of American English probably will show:
"Simoleon: American slang for 'dollars' prevalent just before the war; see 'dough,' 'iron man.'
"Flapper: A term derived from the English, but meaning in America a young female person of somewhat giddy tastes.
"Fledge: American college fraternity term for persons chosen to be initiated.
"Want out: Expression of Indiana origin and usage; not considered good in other parts of the country.
"Teuall: Southern equivalent of 'you folks' or 'you.'
And thousands of others.
There is to be another side of the task, however, than the work on slang, dialect and inverted usage. This is the historical side, which is expected to have value beyond that of establishing and defining the American language.

Sentiment Wins Profit In Books
(From The Philadelphia Record.)
On the same day two wills were probated—one in London and the other in New York—which shed an interesting light upon the pecuniary rewards of authorship. From New York comes the news that Mrs. Frances Eliza Townsend, better known as Frances Hodgson Burnett, left an estate of $160,000. At the same time London reports that the will of Joseph Conrad shows that the famous author left an estate valued at only $92,000.
As literature the story of "Little Lord Fauntleroy and the other sentimental tales of Mrs. Burnett are not to be mentioned in the same breath with the superb novels of Conrad, but apparently they brought greater financial rewards. It is surprising, too, that the returns from Conrad's writings, which have grown so popular in late years, should be so comparatively unimportant.
As a matter of fact, $92,000 cannot possibly represent the full value of his estate, for his royalties will continue to accrue to his heirs for many years to come. It is interesting to recall, by the way, that the late John Quinn, who bought in so many of Conrad's original manuscripts, sold them about a year ago for a sum considerably greater than the figure given in London as the value of the author's estate.

TWO FLOORS OF GOOD THINGS TO WEAR

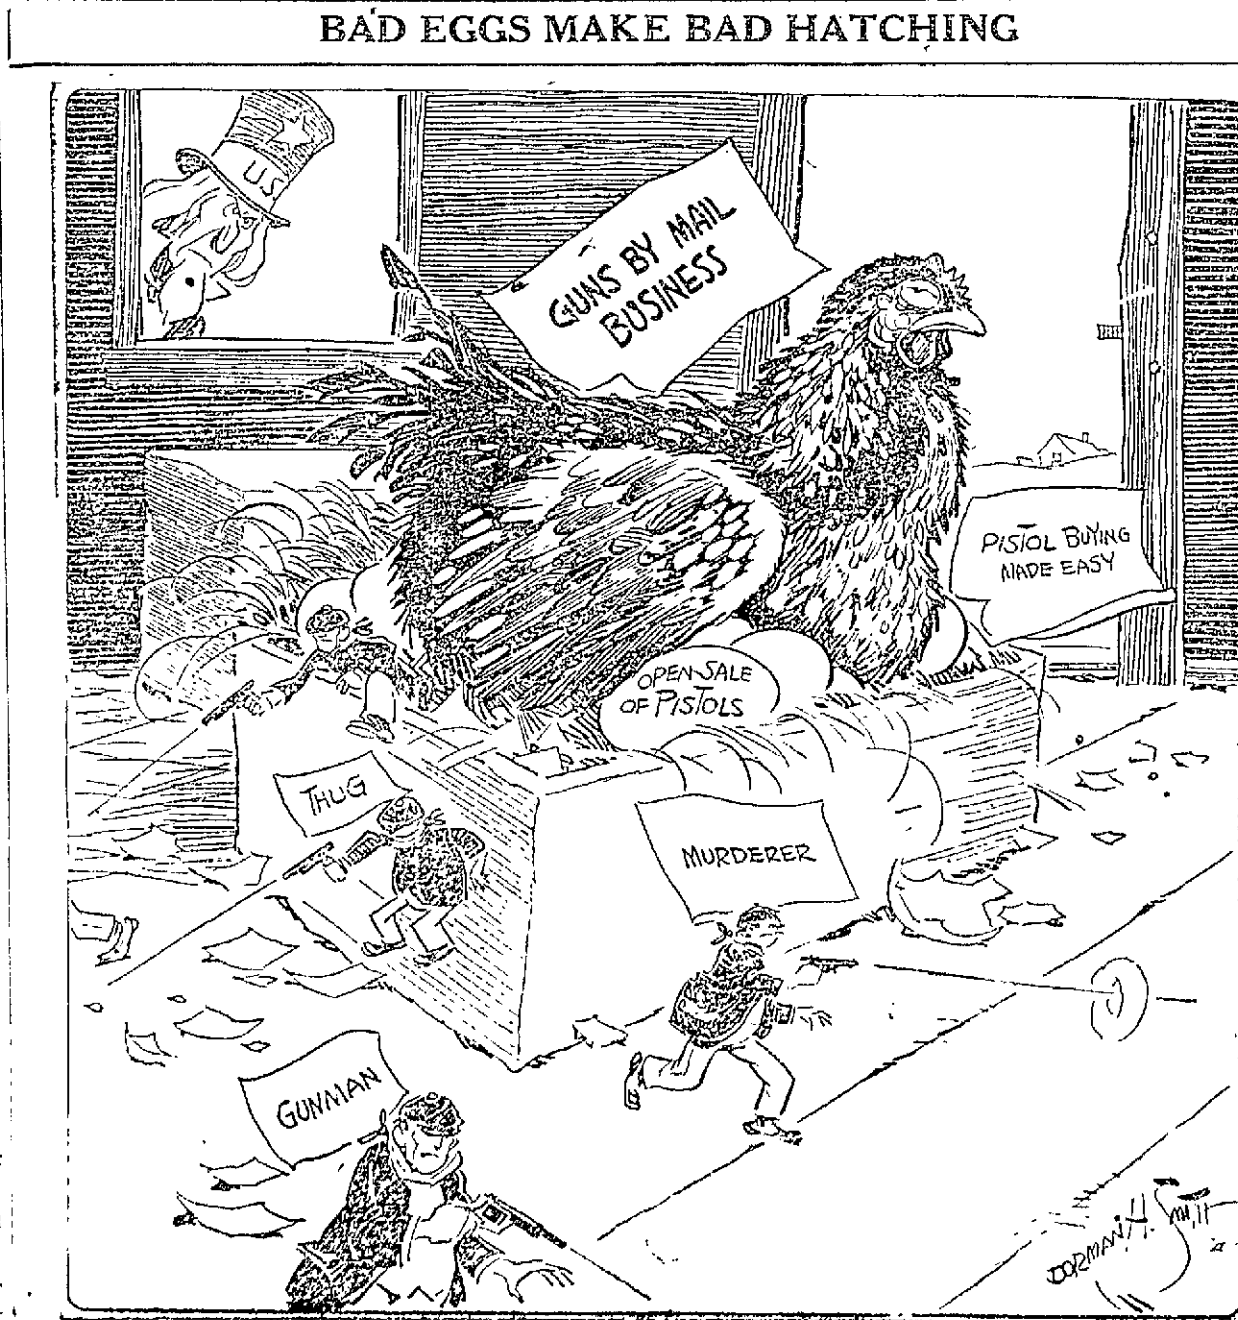

Adventures In The Library
By ARNOLD MULDER

SUGGESTED BY "THE GREEN HAT"
Just now Michael Arlen is all the rage in England and America. Arlen has burst upon the literary world much as Keats in his famous sonnet said that the Pacific must have burst upon Cortez, meaning Balboa. In a single year Arlen came through with five successful novels, a feat that has probably never before been achieved in the history of literature. He did not of course write them all in one year but they were all published in this country in a single year. A twelvemonth ago he had been heard of by hardly anyone here; today everybody is reading him.
Except myself. I have not been able to get through "The Green Hat," although I tried conscientiously. Which is not at all necessarily the fault of "The Green Hat" but merely means that it is not my kind of book.

HIS REAL NAME
"Michael Arlen" is a name deplume. The novelist's real name is Dirkan Kouyoumdjian. No wonder he changed his name. He is a native of Armenia and has been doing literary criticism in London for the past five years or more.
But to come back to "The Green Hat," a part of which I managed to get through. The main character in that book allowed herself to be discredited in her social world because on her wedding night her young husband commits suicide. She refuses to say anything about the affair except that her husband "died for purity." The deduction to be made from such a statement is obvious and she pays the penalty. After several hundred pages the reader learns that he did indeed "die for purity" but that it was he who was impure, not she, and that he killed himself out of remorse.
Meanwhile the girl has sacrificed herself to protect the memory of one who had not the slightest right to have his memory protected and she herself goes to the bad, a sacrifice to her quixotic sense of honor.

And this is not an isolated case. It is a favorite situation with the romantics. They love to have an innocent character sacrifice himself or herself for another, with the idea of course of arousing the reader's admiration for the unselfish nobility of the character. But would we honestly admire such a character in real life? Nine chances out of ten we would not. In a situation in real life like the one described in "The Green Hat," we'd be more likely to respect a woman who honestly and frankly told the facts than a woman who indulged in romanticistic rhetoric to the effect that "he died for purity."
FANNY WYOTE ONE TOO
Similar situations pop up right along in scores of novels. Take Fannie Hurst's "Lummock." Bertha, the elephantine servant girl of that story, is a sort of protector to another girl servant in a wealthy home. After the girl's death the mistress discovers that many articles of finery have been stolen. Bertha knows that the other girl has taken them but when the mistress accuses Bertha of the theft Bertha does not say a word in self-defense. She is protecting the memory of her friend. She allows herself to be disgraced and thrown out of a home upon the cold world when a word would have cleared her.
Fannie Hurst's rhetoric makes it a rather effective episode. But frankly, would an honest-to-goodness person in real life do that kind of thing? I for one can't see them doing it. And that is not a cynical, hard-boiled attitude either. I believe in nobility of character, high-mindedness, sympathy and pity and love for one's fellows. But I believe still more in horse-sense and in the ultimate utility of all such super-heroical self-sacrifice. I believe it is nobler and more human too to face such a situation honestly and let the blame rest where it belongs even though the person blamed is dead and gone.
If the romantic novels are to be believed such futile self-sacrifice that helps no one in a practical way is a common everyday occurrence. Personally I have never run across a case of it in real life and if it exists I am quite sure it is extremely rare. The romantics forget that the instinct for self-preservation is a primary law and that it takes a much stronger motive than mere sentiment to abrogate it.

Cold Fails To Keep Folks From Picture

Despite the weather, First Congregational church was comfortably filled Sunday night for the motion picture, "Humoresque," taken from Fanny Hurst's story. Mrs. Ruth Schumaker-Tunison played a number of violin selections, accompanied by LaVahn Maesch, organist. The picture, which received highest acclaim in all parts of the country, depicted the rise of an obscure violinist to fame. The selections played by Mrs. Tunison and Maesch blended with the theme of the picture and added much to its enjoyment.

This Man Hires 50,000 Employees Every Year

Washington — William C. Deming is the world's biggest employer.

As president of the United States Civil Service Commission, he hires 50,000 workers annually.

About 200,000 take these tests annually. Fifty per cent pass, and half of them receive appointments.

In one examination alone—one for mail clerks—27,000 applications were received from all parts of the country.

"Americans have a certain pride in holding government jobs," says Deming. "Then, too, there are certain privileges in civil service work that appeals to them."

"In departmental service, one gets 20 days annually with pay, and if needed a sick leave of 30 days, also with pay. And then there is a retirement system accompanied by a pension effective at 65 or 70, for those who have been in government service 15 years or more."

"And the pay on the majority of jobs compares favorably with that in similar lines of work on the outside."

ENDANGERED BY
OIL HEATER BLASTQuick Alarm Saves Ditter and Son Shop from Destruction

Kaukauna—The failure of heating systems to function properly caused two fires over the weekend. The fire apparatus was called out about 8:30 Sunday morning to the W. C. Ditter and Son plumbing shop, 108 E. Second-st where it is said the oil burner system exploded, filling the entire basement with smoke and flames. A man in the basement of the adjacent building heard the explosion and an alarm was turned in immediately. Dense smoke poured from the building and firemen had a difficult task locating the flames. The rafters in the basement were charred and the flames had already broken into the first story before they were checked.

About 7:45 Monday morning the department was called to the home of Charles Parker, East Ninth-st, where a water front stove exploded. No fire followed but the entire room and the contents were ruined by the dense black soot. It is believed the water pipes were frozen and that steam formed after the fire was built, causing the explosion.

1924 H. S. GRADUATES
HOLD DANCING PARTY

Kaukauna—Members of the high school graduating class of 1924 held their first reunion, an informal dancing party and social Saturday evening at the new high school. About 35 young people were present. Mr. and Mrs. William Waterpool of Marinette and Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Dryer of this city, were guests of the class. Dancing and games furnished entertainment.

LEGION GRIDDERS INVITE
DADS TO SUPPER TUESDAY

Kaukauna—The annual banquet of the American legion football squad will take place at 6:15 Tuesday evening in the legion club house on Oak-st. Cards have been sent to each member of the squad. The players have been asked to invite their fathers. A program of toasts will be given following the banquet.

HITING-SMITH WEDDING

BUSINESS AT P. O.
DOUBLED DURING
STEWART'S TERM

Postmaster Will Be Glad to Retire Because of Health—
Fiedler Recommended

Special to Post-Crescent
Seymour—Seymour postoffice is expected to change postmasters in a short time. As has been announced, the name of George F. Fiedler has been presented to congress.

John Stewart, the retiring postmaster, will have served ten years the coming February. He was appointed under the Wilson administration. His regular term of office expired in August, 1923.

The office has increased from a third to second class office during the last ten years, and the business has increased 100 per cent. There are five rural routes, all which are carrying more mail now than when Mr. Stewart took the office. Mr. Stewart has been a business man of Seymour since 1874. He was associated with Thomas Mitchell in a general merchandise store and in 1878 he went into the flour milling business owned by Stewart Bros., serving there until it burned. He was one of the charter members of Seymour Fair and Driving Park association.

On account of his health Mr. Stewart will be glad to be relieved of his office as postmaster.

GARAGE BURNS
A garage containing two cars on the farm of Walter Peterson, Laney, was destroyed by fire Dec. 18 at 11 o'clock in the morning. One car and the building were insured. Tools valued at $150 and oil and grease were lost. Origin of fire was unknown.

C. E. Hughes of Monroe, was a business caller at Seymour Saturday, Dec. 27.

L. H. Tubbs was at Laney Saturday, Dec. 27, calling on Walter Peterson.

Saturday registered 22 degrees below zero. Merchants said holiday business was not so good as usual. The postoffice at Seymour reports the volume of parcel post at this time was less than the last few years.

LEADS TO PROTEST

Chamber of Commerce Wants Mail Cars Restored to Two Trains

New London—The local chamber of commerce, through D. B. Egan, secretary, is entering a protest to the postoffice department against the curtailment of mail service on Green Bay and Western trains No. 3 and 4.

It is reported this action was taken by the department on account of poor train service and continual change in time cards. If the towns along the line affected by this order would have protested against these changes this action would not have been taken, the department intimates.

ZERO SPELL MEANS
EARLY ICE HARVEST

New London—Sunday was New London's coldest day. The official report was around 24 degrees below zero.

The cold weather of the last few days has been unusually favorable for a good ice crop this year. Last season the ice harvest did not start until February and the quality was not the best. Gust Forrest of the New London Ice and Fuel Co., harvests about 3,000 tons annually and the Wolf Valley Dairy Co., harvests quite a large amount for use in its plant here.

DEPRESSION RULES SHIPPING CIRCLES OF TRANSCAUCASIA

Caspian and Black Sea Regions Suffer Most Under Bolshevik Rule
By Associated Press
Baku, Azerbaijan—Of all the areas in Russia which have suffered economically since the Bolshevik revolution, perhaps none has experienced such profound commercial depression as the Great Caspian and Black Sea regions. Baku, Novorossiysk, Batumi, Sevastopol and Odessa, which once were among the busiest and most prosperous ports in Europe are now mere graveyards of derelict and abandoned merchant ships. Soviet Russia is neither exporting nor importing goods in any considerable quantity, and the consequence is that her shipping trade like most of her other industries is paralyzed.

OUR POSITION

We have been asked by a number of people what our store hours will be after the first of the year.

Our answer is, that they will be the same as they are now: 9:00 A. M. to 5:30 P. M. on week-days and 9:00 A. M. to 8:30 P. M. on Saturdays.

We have seriously considered closing our store at 5:30 or 6:00 P. M. on Saturdays, but have decided not to do so, for the following reasons:

- Many of our customers—those on the farms, or in mills or factories or offices, for example—frequently find no time to do their shopping except after supper Saturday night. It would be working a hardship on these customers and friends of ours should we close earlier.
- We believe that the City of Appleton as a whole would lose a great deal of trade from outlying districts that would go to other towns to buy, if all the stores here would be closed Saturday nights.
- Even when we remain open until 8:30 P. M. on Saturdays, no-one works more than 45½ hours a week in this store, and we consider that a reasonable period of work.
- We have made a careful investigation, and have found that the 8:30 P. M. closing hour is neither excessively fatiguing to our employees nor is it so late as to deprive them of wholesome social activities.
- Our attitude on this subject is governed not by any desire to make a few extra dollars, but by a sincere desire to be of the maximum possible service and benefit to our friends and customers.

HOW MUCH HAS APPLETON GROWN IN THE LAST FIVE YEARS?

In 1920 the government census of Appleton was 19,561. At that time the Post-Crescent had a city circulation slightly over 4000. Starting with this figure the circulation of the Post-Crescent in the city of Appleton has shown a constant and gradual growth until today it is over 5400.

In 1920 the Post-Crescent delivered a paper to an average of every five persons in the city. On the same basis today the population of Appleton would be 27,000, provided there were still five persons living in Appleton to every copy of the Post-Crescent delivered in the city.

We do not think that the population of Appleton today is anywhere near that figure. The latest estimate was 23,000 and we believe that to be a little high. Probably 22,000 is more nearly correct.

Has The Post-Crescent kept pace with this growth? We believe it has, and then some. It has apparently grown much faster than the city as there is now one Post-Crescent delivered in Appleton to approximately every four persons living in the city. That means that the city coverage of the Post-Crescent is the most thorough in its history---practically 100%.

A study of the chart will show this growth. An advertising expenditure in the Post-Crescent columns will be convincing proof of the thorough coverage.

AUTOMOBILE LOOKS GOOD BUT STILL IS FAR FROM PERFECT

Many Improvements Still Must Be Made in Cars, Expert Says

BY ISRAEL KLEIN

For the benefit of the motorists who think their cars are the best ever, here's a list of what is still to be accomplished in order to bring out the perfect auto. It presents problems over which engineers are still pondering.

1. Variable, smooth-running transmission.
2. Noiseless, vibrationless motor.
3. Perfect braking.
4. Effortless control.
5. Efficient fuel consumption.
6. Comfort against shock and vibrations.

7. More efficient headlights.
8. Durable finish.
9. Longer life.

This list, which is only partial, need not discourage the motorist. His car today really is a wonder, considering the quarter century of its advancement and the rapid strides in its improvement.

PARTLY DEVELOPED

All that the list points out is there is a good deal more room for improvement. That the motor car industry is still young.

Most of the factors mentioned have already been developed to some extent. The matter of durable finish, for instance, but none has reached the stage at which nothing more can be done, where perfection can be claimed for it.

The last year brought out a few significant points in this connection. In the case of balloon tires, for instance, it was found that they are not exactly what would prove practical. Tire manufacturers have found it necessary to increase the number of plies from four to six, to withstand wear. They are trying to correct the shimmying effect of balloons. And rolling, or rumbling, from such tires gives them another mystery to solve.

DOPED FUELS

Seeking a method of eliminating detonation in engines, especially where much carbon is present, has brought out a series of treated fuels and "dopes" which have still to be found beneficial.

Tests are being conducted with these dopes at the U. S. Bureau of Standards. Up to the present, engineers have found that all doped fuels do is what the simple practice of retarding the spark could also accomplish.

The annual used car problem is as perplexing as ever. But more and more dealers and manufacturers see a way out by not trading in old cars for new. If this plan is generally adopted, the result would be longer use of the same auto by the same driver.

To encourage this, engineers are trying to make the auto usable for a longer period of time without letting it appear old or decrepit.

THRIFTY PUPILS IN APPLETON SCHOOLS

Pupils of Appleton schools have a reputation for thrift and saving, for they are ranked by the state department of public instruction as first in the number of depositors in the school banks in Class C division of cities.

Schools here have an enrollment of 94.8 per cent in the school bank. Other cities of the same class rank as follows: West Allis, 89 per cent; Green Bay, 82.5 per cent; Manitowish, 81.9 per cent; Fond du Lac, 80.3 per cent.

Classes are based upon enrollment, thus: Class B, from 5,000 to 10,000; Class C, from 2,000 to 5,000; Class D, under 5,000. Marshfield led all other cities in Class D with a mark of 100 per cent. Racine led in Class B with 86.8 per cent.

LICENSE APPLICATIONS SENT TO CAR OWNERS

Automobile license applications have been mailed to all registered auto owners in the state. It is announced by Secretary of the State Zimmerman in a letter to the county clerk Wednesday. Additional license applications can be procured by writing directly to Secretary Zimmerman or by applying at the offices of the county clerk or county highway commissioner.

Rate books explaining the fees required for various vehicles, accompany each license blank. The blanks, when filled out, are to be sent, together with the fee, directly to the office of the secretary of state. No county officials are allowed to take in the fees this year.

The "King Of The Ivories"

When Harry Snodgrass, voted radio's best entertainer, leaves prison on Jan. 16, his fame goes with him. Radio fans may not hear him as often as they did through station WOS, at Jefferson City, Mo. Above, Snodgrass is as he broadcasts his piano pieces. At right is the capitol dome from which his playing was flashed. At lower left, the prison he leaves behind.

Jefferson City, Mo.—Radio soon will lose one of its best entertainers, when Harry Snodgrass leaves prison.

In the loss, however, radio will win the credit of having reformed a criminal.

An unsuccessful hold-up in St. Louis, a three-year term, half of it lopped off for his good record, and now the famous "King of the Ivories" intends to return to his wife, his son and a flattering job when he leaves January 16.

Those eighteen months in prison, rather than quenching his ambitions, raised them to such a height that he feels confident of success hereafter. "I'm going straight forever," he reiterates. "I'm through with white mule that led me into this. I have several offers of jobs. I suppose I'll take one and settle down with my wife and son."

"Several offers of jobs" is Snodgrass' way of describing the numerous enticing propositions made in him from theaters, vaudeville circuits, cafes and dance orchestras. He has his eye on one job, however. That is, making music rolls for a player piano company.

FUND COLLECTED

Topping these expressions of appreciation by the fans is a fund that is being collected for him through station WOS, from which Snodgrass has been broadcasting.

In one night 1500 telegrams were received announcing contributions were on the way. They range all the way up to $10 from each fan, and come from such distances as Rhode Island, Salt Lake City, Winnipeg and New Orleans.

That means practically the end of radio entertainment for Harry Snodgrass. Short, snappy and witty, Snodgrass looks little like a piano player.

But when he touches the keys, his stature is forgotten. His playing has attracted radio fans throughout the United States and Canada to tune in on station WOS, here, especially when the Missouri State Prison Band is scheduled to broadcast.

He has brought renown to WOS, broadcasting station of the state board of agriculture. Wires from fans all over the country have come into the capitol dome, where the studio is located, praising him.

FANS RESPOND

Proof of Snodgrass' fame as a piano broadcaster is shown by the thousands of telegrams he received, the mass notes he has had to turn down, the gifts of candy, tobacco, musical instruments and other valuables and his election to the highest honor in fan-dom. That honor is first prize as most popular radio entertainer in the country.

With the publication of this announcement by a radio magazine, comes offers of adopting Snodgrass, of financing his education, giving him enticing jobs and seeking his parole. To all he has turned his back.

TEXAS INCREASES CABBAGE ACREAGE

More Cabbage Is Raised in Texas but Less Acreage in Florida

Reports on next year's cabbage crop and acreage received at the office of R. A. Amundson, county agricultural agent, show a large increase in the lower Rio Grande valley in Texas.

The total acreage planted to cabbage is estimated to be about 12,000, as compared with 7,900 acres harvested last season. Although the acreage in 1923 was only 2,650, the average price was $32, while that of last year was only $22.

It is too early to estimate the yield for the coming season, but it is not probable that the record yield of 5.4 tons per acre of last season will be reached. Transplantings are now being completed and the bulk of the crop probably will move during April. Some fields show thin stands due to hot and dry weather.

While Texas reports an increase in cabbage acreage, in Florida indications are for about 4,500 acres, or about 1,200 acres less than was shown by the report of acreage intended to be planted. The year previous the acreage was 4,900 acres. Last year the January plantings were heavy and a similar occurrence this year would cause a slight increase over the figure given. With dry weather prevailing during planting, the acreage was curtailed, and the crop therefore will be later than last season by about 15 days. A few cars have already moved, but compared with last year, shipments will be much lighter during January with the heaviest movement after Feb. 15.

CHURCHES PLAN WATCH SERVICES

Waupaca Congregations Will Welcome New Year—Curling Rink Ready

Special to the Post-Crescent
Waupaca — New Years watch services have been arranged at some of the local churches. The Methodist services will start at 8:30 with a program of music, literary, social and devotional features, the services continuing unbroken until the New Year is welcomed.
Dr. J. W. Cleverger, pastor of First Baptist church, announces that watch night services will begin with the regular prayer meeting. The young people then will present a program to be followed by a social time.
Holy Ghost Lutheran church party New Year's eve starts at 8 o'clock. There will be a program and refreshments.
A controversy has arisen in regard to disposition of the equipment of the old Waupaca normal school at New London. The county board voted to let the county superintendent of schools, O. K. Elverson have as much of the equipment as he could use. Mr. Elverson went to New London to obtain these things and met with enough opposition to stop his securing any part of the goods. This is a matter the county board in all probability will be called upon to adjust.
Modern Woodmen will give a scherzhaft party at its hall Tuesday evening.
Various town treasurers have announced their intention of collecting taxes at the local banks commencing Saturday, Jan. 3.
Waupaca curlers will soon be able to use their large new covered rink. Carpenters are nearly finished and the ice floor is now being formed. Rex Luther, secretary of the rink, stated that on Monday practice would start and the schedule of games will start about New Year's day. The building housing the rink proper is 148 feet in length and wide enough for two slides.
The committee studying the proposed canning plant for Waupaca continues to be active in its investigation of the many phases of the industry. The members who went to Newville to visit, S. E. Sander, J. H. Fisher, James H. Dunn and Ernest Smith in concert express their favor in favor of the securing of a canning factory for this city. It is generally conceded that the boom in canning could be developed into a highly satisfactory proposition along with other lines as corn, vegetables and pumpkins.

Women Want To Get Their Money's Worth Even In Sending Night Letters

Woman's well known trait, that of always getting her money's worth has been demonstrated again and again in many ways but no doubt the strangest of these consists of making use of every one of her allotted 50 words in a night letter, even though she is compelled to add a few non-essential afterthoughts. Often she works on a night letter for some time, arranging and rearranging the message in order to get the extra words in after the essentials are there, according to local managers of telegraph companies.
Social letters always contain between 48 and 50 words, but business letters more often fall far below this mark. The business man says just what is necessary and he makes no effort to use his 50 words. In spite of this, social messages are much easier to handle. There are no stilted words or phrases as in the business letters, which must be handled with extra care.
The night letter is used mostly for social purposes although many business men take advantage of the opportunity to get messages to customers the first thing in the morning. In a social way its use is largely for birthdays and weddings. Practically every class of people use night letters. Salesmen at hotels send in their reports after supper by this method. Thus use the night letter for collecting traveling men use telegrams to keep in touch with their families, employers keep salesmen in touch with prices charged.
Forms are used for practically every kind of business message in order to make the work easier, and this practice now is coming into use for the social letter. Salesmen's reports usually are from letters with only the figures inserted. This also is true of collection messages. A choice of from 20 to 30 different word cards is offered by the telegraph companies for wedding messages. The various picks of messages gives the purchaser's address and all the bother is over. This year, forms for letters are used as Christmas and New Year greetings. The company prepared form greetings, which were numbered. All the sender had to do was call the company, give the address and the number of the message and the worded messages were sent. In a holiday rush the message was sent from the local office directly from the numbered list instead of from a copy sheet, thus saving some time. In the last three or four years the number of night letters sent out during the holidays has increased tremendously. Where, formerly, Christmas was a normal day at the telegraph office, extra help now is required. It is the general impression, expressed in the larger cities that night letters are mailed in the morning but are delivered like the regular programs, according to the managers based, has given us a pulsating story of the rich, colorful and enticing. In the competent hands of Director Will Nigh, who made the production for Garrick Pictures Corporation, the tale has been transferred into a screen classic. And considerable credit cast assembled by Mr. Nigh, the roll including Claire Windsor, Bert Lytell, J. Barney Sherry, Maude Turner Gordon, Frank Morgan and Jackie Ott.

"Born Rich" is a vigorously presented story, told smoothly and eloquently and swiftly. From beginning to end it is graphically portrayed, and we recommend it as one of the pictures that are well worthy seeing.

STETSON'S "UNCLE TOM'S CABIN" COMPANY
When Leon W. Washburn's production of the original Stetson "Uncle Tom's Cabin" appears in the Appleton Theatre, for matinee and evening performances on Tuesday, December 30, local theatre goers will have an opportunity of judging for themselves what a really first-class "Uncle Tom's Cabin" production really is. This is the recognized paramount "Tom" show of the country and for many years it has been recognized as the leader of its class.
No play ever written is better known to all parts of the world, to all classes of people than "Uncle Tom's Cabin" not even the plays of the immortal Shakespeare, for the play of Slavery Days has been presented in every village and hamlet in this broad country. It is estimated that there has never been a day during the past seventy-two years that it has not been touring the country in one section or another.
Mr. Washburn has successfully solved the problem of combining the old and new "Uncle Tom's Cabin" into a big spectacular play that leaves out nothing worth retaining in either the straight or circus method. All the worthy features of the old landmark are retained, while the thread of the story has been cleverly reconstructed, making it more coherent than with the introduction of a host of high class vaudeville stunts thoroughly in keeping with the dramatic good far to add make an enjoyable evening's entertainment, you will see a performance just a little better than you thought the best.
"Uncle Tom's Cabin" was first produced at the old Troy Museum, Troy, N. Y. on 1852. It was presented in England for the first time at the Manchester Theatre, Manchester, in 1853 and in Paris at the Theatre Francaise on July 13, 1855. To our late late vaudeville players and German quickly followed, and by the time the play had been shown in the United States it was being performed in all the theatres of the world. It has been produced in every city of the world, and it is still being produced in every city of the world. It is a drama of the triumph, but it is just as notable for its humor, and it is a building humor, two ingredients that the perfect picture must possess to be successful.
Hughes Cornish, the author of the novel on which this production is

STAGE AND SCREEN

Paul Dresser's famous song, "On the Banks of the Wabash," has been put into story form and pictured by J. Stuart Blackton. It will be shown at the New Edison Theatre today, Tuesday and Wednesday. The action takes place at Cranberry Corners, a small town on the banks of the Wabash River in Indiana and in the splendor did cost are Mary Ann Burr McIntosh, James Morrison, Madge Evans, Mary MacLaren, Lumsden Hart and other noted players.
"On the Banks of the Wabash" is based upon the famous song by Paul Dresser and renders on the screen a tribute to the genius of the author and people of Indiana who he glorified in his song. "On the Banks of the Wabash" is a story of life in a typical American town, where petty rivalries, unrequited love and jealousies and hate and romance else freely, only to be tempered in the end. A tremendous storm scene, a rescue by a steam wheel of the residents of Cranberry Corners from flood and a fire bring the photoplay to a dramatic close.
"BORN RICH" IS A SPECIAL FILM
"Born Rich," a First National picture, which is now playing at the Erie Theatre, is quite out of the ordinary, and, in our estimation, one of the finest of this season's cinematic offerings. While the setting is that of wealth, the picture is as simple and unadorned as a letter from home, and it possesses an appeal that is as broad as the horizon.
In some mysterious manner, the tale unfolded itself into our heart and succeeded in charming us and giving us more pleasure than has fallen to our lot in some time. Story after story, acting—all were flawless, the combined excellence of it is responsible for a photoplay that is entertaining in the nth degree. It is a drama of the triumph, but it is just as notable for its humor, and it is a building humor, two ingredients that the perfect picture must possess to be successful.

Kane-Azzarella Bout Here Draws Interest From All Over State

Milwaukee Sport Writers Forsee Close and Exciting Match at Armory G New Years Day.

Announcement that Joe Azzarella will meet Jack Kane of Chicago in Armory G here on New Years afternoon has aroused much interested comment all over the state, but especially in Milwaukee. Azzarella has made a wonderful reputation for himself and his showing with Joey Sangor at Fond du Lac recently has put him in line for a lot of lucrative business, and possibly for a crack at the championship in the near future. Some of the best known sport writers of the Cream City are regretting the fact that Milwaukee was unable to arrange this card, and predict a fast and even encounter.

Kane, the Chicago flash, is not so well known as Azzarella, but according to the dope, he is a coming scrapper who likes to mix it. He has fought Sammy Mandell, Frankie Garcia, Mikey O'Dowd and Patsy Flannigan, among a lot of other notables, and in each case came through with flying colors. Kane took a place on the Fond du Lac card on short notice and won handily from Jack Walsh, displaying speed and aggressiveness, as well as a heavy punch. As he has another match pending with Mandell on condition that he beat Azzarella decisively, he has a good incentive for which to work.

He is known as the "Johnny Dundee" of Chicago because of his elusive tactics. His left is said to be especially fast and deceptive while he carries his hardest wallop in his right. He has appeared in 55 fights during the past year.

Kane at present is working out at the Arcade gymnasium in Chicago with Wm. Smith, the Oklahoma Cowboy, Eddie Anderson, his former opponent, Tony Sanders and Frankie Frisco. He is boxing eight rounds every day besides his regular work and was expected in Appleton Monday to work out in Armory G. Ben Rahms, his manager, who accompanies him, extends a cordial invitation to fans here to watch him do his stuff, beginning between 2 and 2:30 P. M.

Ward Takes High In Elk Pin Tourney

George Ward Saturday copped high money in the Elks sweepstakes bowling tournament on the Elks alleys here when he crashed through the maples for a score of 992. This feat brought him a $14 prize. Roy Spear's 964 put him in second place for an $11 pot; Peter Beringer rolled 950 for third place and $7, while Frank Fries took $4 and fourth place with a 924 total.

Another sweepstakes tourney will be held on Saturday, Jan. 3 to which all Appleton bowlers are eligible.

Saturday's scores follow:

Dunko 173, 188, 150, 175, 188, 902; Groth 183, 172, 171, 207, 160, 873; Beringer 193, 175, 207, 155, 217, 950; J. Brandt 170, 161, 130, 177, 172, 808; C. MARQUETTE MEETS NAVY GRID SQUAD ON 1925 PROGRAM

Hilltoppers Face Hard Schedule but Look Forward to Good Season

Milwaukee — Marquette university football followers already are looking forward to next season, hopeful and expecting that the 1925 edition of the "Golden Avalanche" will be even stronger than its predecessors of the last three seasons, and that it will carry Marquette even higher up the ladder of gridiron success.

Although the schedule for next season is not yet fully completed, William L. Coffey, chairman of the Marquette athletic board, has made preliminary announcements which indicate that the Blue and Gold eleven will face the heaviest campaign in Hilltop history. As has been the case for the last two years, intercollegiate games will figure prominently on the 1925 program.

Marquette will get a chance to repeat its great feat of 1924 when it faces the Navy at Annapolis, Oct. 10, the two teams met this last fall on Farragut field and the Golden Avalanche was victorious, 21 to 8.

Thus far, the Oct. 17 and 24 dates are open, but Creighton, the first team to defeat the Hilltoppers in three seasons returns to Milwaukee for battle, Oct. 31. For the first time in Milwaukee's history, a Missouri valley team makes an invasion Nov. 7, when the Kansas Aggies will be here to provide the homecoming day opposition. South Dakota State North Central conference undefeated champs are scheduled, Nov. 14, and on Thanksgiving day the tentative schedule calls for an intercollegiate scrap with Pacific coast notables, the Oregon Aggies. St. Mary's college, Minnesota collegiate champion, is billed for a preliminary game Oct. 3.

Coach Frank J. Murray has had remarkable success since he took charge of football at Marquette, at the start of the 1922 season. Starting out that season with only one veteran player his team went undefeated that year and the next while this season hard-fought games were dropped to Boston college and Creighton and victories were rung up over Navy, John Carroll, North Dakota, Vermont and St. Mary's.

With a heavier schedule next season the Marquette coaches must round out a strong team to carry the Hilltop standards through with the blue and gold flying high.

Spring Series With Giants Warm Affair

New York—Major league managers are of the opinion that the spring series of 21 games between New York and Washington will be the most hotly fought exhibition series ever arranged.

There is no denying the fact that McGraw and his club feel that they are a stronger combination than the world champs. Since it wasn't so proven in the world series they are going to try to demonstrate the fact this spring.

The umpires who work in the series will earn their salary and probably will have made a lot of enemies before the season starts.

Clarence Rowland has already agreed on terms with Washington as the American League official while Bill Klein will probably be the National League arbitrator.

Notre Dame's Best Bet

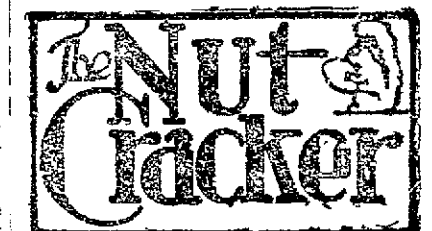

HARRY STUHLREHER

If ever a player deserved All-American rating, that individual is Quarterback Harry Stuhlreher of Notre Dame. He hasn't a weakness and is the best field general of the year.

If Stanford upsets the dope and beats Notre Dame, Stuhlreher must first be stopped as he is the direct line head of Rockne's fleet backfield.

Notre Dame's greatest quarter back of all time, is Coach Rockne's tribute to Stuhlreher.

APPLETON HIGH CAGE PROSPECTS ARE BRIGHTENING

Last Year's Second Stringers Make Better Showing Than Was Expected

With several of last year's second stringers showing up better than was expected basketball prospects at Appleton high school are improving with every drill period and Shelbyman may be due for a big surprise there on Jan. 2. The squad has been working hard on offense and defense, and looked good in recent scrimmages with Guy Barlow's second team. The youngsters have cut short their Christmas vacation and turned out for practice on the Y. M. C. A. courts Saturday and Friday and will continue to work every day up to the opening game at Shelbyman.

Frankie who played in several regular games last year seems to have regained his shooting eye and Pfeffer looks good at guard. Pfeiffer was one of the stars on the Soudanmore club team.

The players were vaccinated last week and are expected to recover from the effects of the serum in time for the opening.

Julius Kevin Appleton coach is a firm believer in the flyman defense and his men have taken to it in good shape.

Guy Barlow has 1/2 second stringers in good shape and expects to have a schedule arranged for them in the near future.

Old catchers are once more gaining favor as big league coaches. Joe McGraw recently appointed Roger Breenahan as "Cox." Breenahan's career while Connie Mack has resuscitated his former catcher of championship days. Ira Thomas.

TOURIST INNS JUMP TO SECOND IN TOURNAMENT

Tourist Inns No. 1 Friday evening went into second place in the Monmouth holiday tournament when they rolled 2143, while Clothes Shops with 2,800 took a jump to third place. The evening was so far as the team division was concerned. Sunday the usual sweepstakes were rolled, and Monday the doubles division of the holiday tourney was due to start.

COLD STOPS WORK ON NEW LAWRENCE ATHLETIC FIELD

Track Will Be Ready for Use in Spring, Football Field in Fall

Work has been suspended for the winter on Lawrence college's new athletic field, which was purchased last spring. Draining and grading of the track and football field has been completed, and cinders hauled for the track which will be ready for use next spring.

The football field will be available for the 1925 season. When completed it will include a stadium with a seating capacity of 15,000. The site of the new field is three blocks from the campus and situated in the triangle between South River street, the railway tracks and John street with an outlet from the field to South River street on Wackerus.

The purchase of the new grounds was a result of the growth of Lawrence and its athletic program to the extent that the old four-acre field now in use was deemed inadequate for its needs. The tract now owned by the college includes approximately twenty acres overlooking the Fox river and is said to be adapted to the athletic needs of the school for years to come. Lack of a second football field and of sufficient room to erect modern large crowds during the football season were deciding factors in determining the new policy.

The grounds contains a 220-yard straightaway cinder track and the new football field. A standard quarter-mile track 20 feet wide will surround the field with ample bleacher room on each side. The baseball diamond will be laid out in the east section of the field and will be ready for use in the spring. Work will be started later on the tennis courts and the golf house.

The plans for the field and stadium were drawn by Fred W. Tiedze of the Lawrence faculty and approved by A. C. Denney, athletic director.

Brothers Side By Side

TED SHIPKE, HARRY SHIPKE

Several major college football teams boasted brother players this year. However, Stanford is the only eleven that has brothers play side by side. Ted Shipke plays left end and Harry Shipke left tackle for Stanford. They are great defensive players. Grins through or around them are rare. When some opposing player does break through you can wager the one responsible is surely taken to task by friend brother.

Jack's Rabbit Punch Beat Tommy Gibbons

St. Paul Irishman Couldn't Wear Hat for Two Weeks After Bout With Dempsey.

New York—As you've noticed, Tommy Gibbons is back in the headlines, and the business of bringing him and Jack Dempsey, the champion, together in a return bout next summer is merrily on.

Dempsey wasn't able to knock out Gibbons in 15 rounds at Shelby summer before last. Dempsey didn't even score a knockdown. The fight went the limit though the fighter man was decisively outpointed.

There is no reason to believe a return bout would end any differently. Gibbons is the cleverest big man in the ring and in a fight limited to 12 or 15 rounds he ought to be able to keep Dempsey off again. On the other hand, Dempsey's greater strength ought to win for him on points.

Up in Michigan last summer I asked Gibbons a rather personal question to wit: "Did you go in to win?" against Dempsey merely to stay the limit, or did you go in to win?"

"I WENT IN TO WIN"
This question was prompted largely by a widespread impression that Gibbons' efforts during the fight were restricted solely to a feeble clinch and rapid, hysterical backpedal. "I went in there to win if I could," answered Gibbons, "and while I may have surprised you by going the limit, actually disappointed myself by not winning."

We are willing to take this statement as the gospel. Gibbons is not addicted to an unbridled victory in the eyes of the fight world was a crush defeat to him. A man who agrees to fight for nothing in these days of $500,000 purses must believe in himself.

LAWRENCE GRID OUTLOOK ROSY DESPITE LOSSES

Many Candidates Will Try for Places Left by Eight Veterans in 1925

Despite the loss of eight regulars from the squad Lawrence college will have plenty of experienced material next year, according to coach Mark Catlin. The fast, shifts backfield of last season virtually will be left intact with the one exception of Fend, halfback.

Eddie Kotal, star quarter and half, will lead the squad as captain. Nasom Heideman, Zussman Peace and Nobles all are veterans who will be back at Catlin's call with the addition of La Roux, P. Johnson and Koppa from the freshman string.

Booth, Fellenz, Lums, B. Beyer and Havens will try for berths next season. Stalk, Dunham, Schind and Kummer look good at tackle. Counsell, Stieritz, Scherph, Schwaeger and Steers and will be candidates for guard positions while Hupke and Path will try for center.

Announcing the Award of the Centennial Piano

The offer of Chickering and Sons to present a grand piano to the owner of the oldest Chickering brought to their notice during their Hundredth Anniversary Year has resulted in the discovery of one of the earliest pianos made by Jonas Chickering—a tiny square No. 293—in the possession of Lewis Herreshoff of Bristol, R. I.

This piano was purchased by his ancestor, Capt. J. W. Lewis, on December 18, 1823. The purchase of the instrument is verified by records in Jonas Chickering's own handwriting.

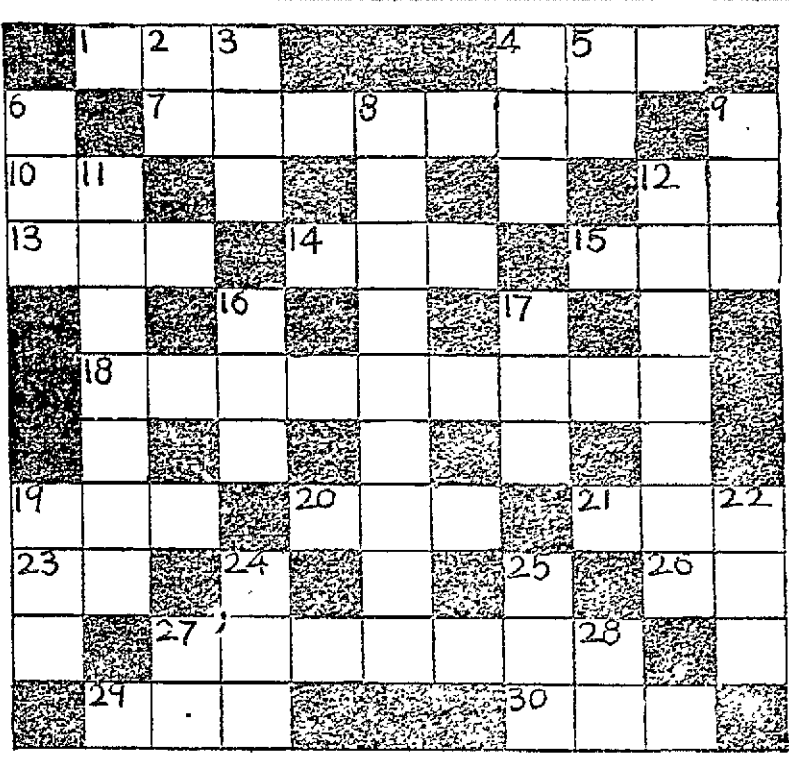

Mr. Herreshoff has therefore been presented with the "Centennial" Grand piano, and the instrument has been installed in his home.

Be sure and see our Baby Grand Piano for $525. Your present piano taken in exchange. Easy terms.

$5 down and $5 per month buys a Brunswick, Victrola or Cheney.

One Person
Out Of Four
Wears Specs

BY ALBERT APPLE
A Boston reporter finds that a fourth of the people who pass him on the streets wear spectacles. Disregarding the myth that the average of intelligence and culture is higher in Boston than in other cities, it's reasonable to assume that Bostonians don't use their eyes any more than other metropolitans. And, accordingly, that the Boston statistic holds good approximately for the whole country.

One person in every four wears glasses.

Probably half the people who really need glasses wear them.

Net result: One American in every two has defective eyesight.

Are we becoming a nation with bad eyes? No other conclusion is plausible when you contemplate the increasing number who have to wear spectacles.

There are three causes for this:

First: Our generation uses its eyes while working more than the oldtimers who worked largely with their hands. The army of clerical employees has become a bewildering multitude, straining their optics. Manufacturing has shifted from the crude to the delicate and skilled, with further strain on sight.

Second: The average American reads more in a day than his grandfather in a month.

Third: Flickering movies strain and injure eyesight.

The growing army of people with defective vision is creating serious problems. One of these is the driving of an auto by eyesight weak and treacherous.

The day is coming when applicants for driving licenses will have to pass examinations for vision as well as for good judgment.

Another form of strain in the gears is the clerical error caused by "poor eyes."

There's a scientific theory that nature gives us what we need and takes it away when no longer necessary. This theory seems to have supplied a cog in the matter of eyesight to fit modern needs. The more we need it, the worse it gets.

Mother was so heartbroken over Alice she kept saying that she wished he had not sent her to England. I tried to comfort her Ruth, and although I think that England did not do her any good, I did not tell mother so. Instead I said:

"I do not believe living in England is any particular difference in Alice's mother. If you will remember she always insisted on having her own way, and she was not always too unscrupulous as to the method by which she got it."

"I wonder if you remember, mother, dear that when I was married we were surprised one day when she gave a very vigorous opinion of me for not mending 'Carl.' I think even before that she was in love with him—that is in love as much as she can love any one except herself."

"Hush, Leslie," said my mother, "although she has wronged you you must not feel so bitter toward her."

"Why should I not? Wouldn't you feel bitter, mother, toward some one who lied and who has apparently succeeded in breaking up your home? I hardly thought it would be my own sister. I could even for give another woman more easily."

"Thank God she is married to Karl, and I don't think she will worry about me any longer—at least she ought to."

"Karl Whitney has always appeared to Alice's romantic tendencies. He has been the hero around whom she has dramatized her own emotions, and she probably thought it would be a very dramatic episode to snatch him away from the other woman, even if that other woman was I."

"She's a very jealous woman, mother. She not only wants to stand first in Karl Whitney's eyes, but in yours and dad's as well as mine."

U.S. Women
Achieve An Air In Dress

"French women are the smartest dressed, English women the most comfortably dressed, but American women are the best dressed," says Miss Dorothy B. Wood of the home economics department of the University of Wisconsin. She has just returned from a visit to London and Paris.

"The French at times wear things utterly startling, different, and correct of course," she points out. "On other occasions their clothes are very simple, quiet and plain. Everything worn has its place."

ENGLISH LIKE TWEED
The English women wear sport clothes and want them big and loose. They are especially fond of tweed suits and silk overblouses. They look an American's trim appearance.

Many American designers have the ability to take a French garment, change its color, trimming, or material, retain its French air, and still have something distinctly American.

"Buying a gown in Paris is altogether different from getting one in Chicago," explains Miss Wood. "You can go into a shop in Paris and ask for a size 16 or 38, purchase it and wear your gown that evening. Each designer makes his own gown, which are worn by models at the openings in August and March. After you have been introduced into a shop you take your place with other buyers, and observe the models as they come out one after another. Each costume has a name. After the two openings each at 10 and 3 you may see any dress again and try it."

If you wish a gown, one is made for you duplicating the one you saw or changed as you desire. Very seldom is the model gown itself sold.

AMERICAN'S FIRST
"If one is a foreigner, a tight fitted dress is first made. This is kept, and if a dress is later ordered from this side of the Atlantic, the measurements from the lining are used."

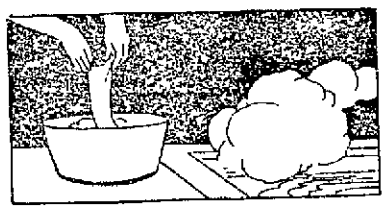

"To copy is to steal" is a saying you may come across when shopping in Paris. Dressmakers, often copy these French gowns, and sell them much cheaper. A little pickering here, a line too low or a collar too med, often shows that a dress is an imitation of the original design.

"An odd fact is that each season on opening for the American buyers is held first, then a second for the French and English, and a last for the Germans."

in the eyes of every other person she happens to like. The reason she is fond of England is because the English made much of her, and the reason she doesn't like America any more is because when she came back it was only to be out of a number of bright girls as clever and perhaps more beautiful than herself."

"You see, Ruth dear, I did not mean to be so unfeeling; at least I did not mean to say all these things to mother, for after all, Alice is mother's daughter, out as I was speaking it came over me again how she had widened the misunderstanding between Jack and me. I was furious."

Mother made me promise at the last after I had shown her the letter which Alice wrote that I would not tell dad, as I had threatened. "It is bad enough," she said, "for John to know what Alice has done."

"He may never know," I answered lightly. "He hasn't answered your telegram, mother. I am not sure whether he will come or not. I've grown so sick and disgusted over that string of pearls that if it were not for giving them to Alice and letting her triumph over me, I would send them all back to her and be glad to get rid of them."

"What is your daughter? We make greater sacrifices always to our pride than we do to our love. The easiest way in the world to settle this whole thing would be for you to send those pearls back," as John wishes."

"But I'm not going to do it," I returned. "I do not see why I should be the one to make a sacrifice in this case to love while Jack pays

CHILDREN'S BUREAU, U. S. DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

PROTECT BABY'S EYES

Eyes—Whether the young baby is awake or asleep, his eyes should always be shielded from strong light, either sunlight or artificial, and from dust and wind. Care should be taken not to allow any soapy water to enter the baby's eyes in bathing. Swelling or redness or any discharge should have medical attention at once.

Mouth—A healthy baby's mouth needs no cleaning before the teeth come. The saliva is a sterilizing fluid, intended to keep the mouth healthy, and it is possible to injure the delicate tissues by attempting to cleanse them with a cloth. If the mouth must be washed, a swab made by twisting a piece of sterile absorbent cotton on the end of a clean stick should be used. Dip this in warm boiled water and wipe the gums very carefully. Never put a finger inside the baby's mouth unless in an emergency.

Ears—Wash the external ear with a soft rag, but never attempt to introduce any hard instrument inside the ear to clean it. Always dry the ears and creases back of them very carefully.

Nose—The baby's nose should be cleaned as a part of the daily toilet in the same way as the ears. When the baby has an infectious cold he should have special attention.

NURSERY FURNISHINGS

Everything not actually needed for the care of the baby should be ruled out of the nursery. Furniture must be of such a nature as to permit washing with soap and water and exposure to sunshine and open windows. If old furniture is used, it may be painted with white or light washable paints. Upholstered furniture, heavy draperies, or covers are unsuitable for use in this room. Following is a list of the essentials:

Bed and bed furnishings, bureau or chest of drawers, one or two low chairs, bathing and toilet equipment, a wall thermometer, a low chair for the mother.

Other useful articles are: Dressing table, a little chair and table, scales and table to hold scales, a screen a nursery, a box, a bath thermometer, drying frames, hot water bottle.

Adventures
Of The Twins

See if you can guess this riddle, my dears, as quickly as Nancy did. I'm the friendliest person you ever did see, If there's half a chance for a meal, But when I'm not invited You cannot blame me, If my appetite tempts me to steal!

"I go round the table from this plate to that, And daintily sit down and sip, I sample the gravy, I nibble the fat, And into the tea cups I dip."

"I dearly love butter, and jelly's a treat, But I'm not so greedy for bread, I am always around, When there's anything sweet, Such as cookies or cake-crumbs or spread."

"I am not at all sensitive, never feel hurt, When you cry at my manners, 'Oh, fie!'"

It matters far more, What you have for dessert, If you've berries, or pudding or pie.

"I huzz my delight as I feast on your food, And I sample your coffee and water, It doesn't disturb me, At all to be shoed, The one thing that I fear if it is a swatter."

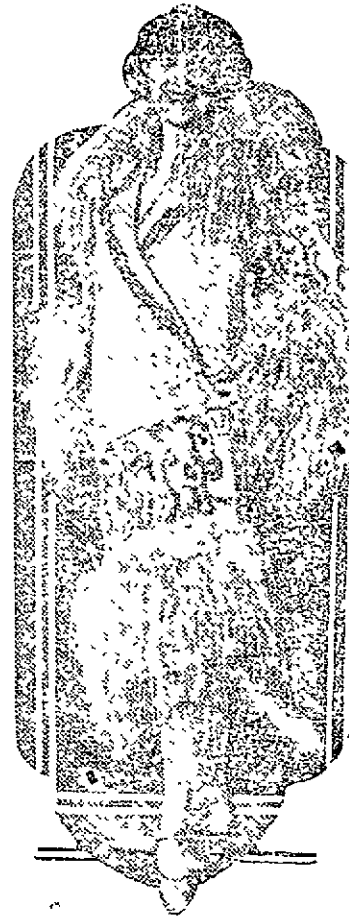

The Twins had gone off by themselves to hunt a shady place. But they could hear the Riddle Lady's voice through the trees quite plainly.

"It's a fly!" called Nancy popping out.

"Oh I guessed it too!" said Little Boy Blue. "But all the flies are in the dining-room and kitchen. There Cream is more easily digested and quickly assimilated than butter, so the woman on a farm will do well to use cream for seasoning her vegetables, not only for herself but the whole family. When cream is used for seasoning more salt is necessary as butter contributes some salt.

Where would a stack be if it not in the hay-field?" said Mrs. John kindly.

as a whole stack in the hayfield." Everybody laughed.

"Why, what's the matter?" asked Little Boy Blue in surprise.

"Where would a stack be if it not in the hay-field?" said Mrs. John kindly.

"Either a whole stack or half a stack," said the Riddle Lady. "What has one wheel but makes three tracks?"

"Well, sir, the Mother Goose people chased everything from sleds to kid-many flies." I suppose I should say a great many flies.

"Well," said the Riddle Lady. "The prize is a whistle and I'll have to give it to Nancy. She said it first."

"Give it to Little Boy Blue please," said Nancy. "He needs a whistle more than I do. A whistle is much better than a horn."

A whole, I suppose, and she. Now why my dears does it make three tracks as you think.

HOPE 1925 WILL SEE GROWTH OF
RELIGIOUS FAITH

Ministers Unite in Prayer for Solid Foundation for Beliefs

Hopes that Appleton might further religious education among the children, that the churches might grow, that they might become a more unified part of the community life, and that they encourage the faith that Christ is the saviour of the world and is the foundation of Christian faith were expressed by Appleton ministers as they enter the new year. Most of the churches are preparing to close the books for 1924 and to look forward to a new year of growth and prosperity, not only for the church, but also for the community.

The Rev. F. C. Reuter, pastor of the First English Lutheran church, expressed the desire that Appleton further its work among the children of the city in religious education. He said that youth should be thoroughly instructed in the Christian faith so that when they enter college or universities they have sound foundation of religious belief.

The First English Lutheran church, said the Rev. Mr. Reuter, has assumed extra financial burden and has become self-supporting since Jan. 1, 1924. The year has been successful, and he hoped that 1925 would bring as much or more success for the church.

A belief that the church should not live within its congregation but should be felt in the community and take its share of community responsibility was expressed by Dr. V. B. Scott, pastor of Memorial Presbyterian church.

He hoped that the Presbyterian church, as well as all other churches, would experience a decided growth. Dr. Scott has been here but four months, but during this period he said that he was well satisfied with Appleton, with the work of his church, and the effort put forth to encourage growth. He hoped that social life of the church would be increased, since it is his belief that social features under the guidance of the church help bind the members of a parish more closely and tend to increase interest in the church.

The Rev. Theodore Marth, pastor of Zion Lutheran church, hoped that in 1925 all churches would preach that Christ is the saviour of the world and that He is the foundation of Christian faith, because Christ said "I am the Truth, way and life and no one comes to the Father except by me." The Zion Lutheran congregation has grown considerably in 1924, said the Rev. Mr. Marth, and he said he was well satisfied with what had been accomplished.

The pastor of Trinity English Evangelical Lutheran church, the Rev. F. L. Schreckenbach, hoped that the membership of his congregation would be doubled in 1925 and that the spiritual life of the community would be strengthened. A new church and parsonage has been erected by this parish and its membership has increased decidedly in the last year.

RADIO PROGRAMS

Local radio fans were given a treat Saturday night from WJLD at Mooseheart, Ill. A University of Wisconsin orchestra consisting of most of the members of the Harefoot club group which made such a hit during the performance of Twinkle, Twinkle, here last year, presented an hour's program. They surely did "pop it up."

WOAW at Omaha has been operating as a 1,000 watt station since last Monday. All changes were made secretly. That's why most fans were surprised to get Omaha so loud. The station intends to increase the power 500 watts at a time until it interferes with others. If this does not occur, which is likely because of the stations wavelength, a 5,000 watt station will soon be on the air.

Don't miss the "King of the Ivories" in his last program of 1924 Monday night. WHAZ presents a fine program Monday night. A trio consisting of a soprano, bass and tenor accompanied by a violin and piano start the program. This is followed by Scotch songs and ballads by David S. Murray and an instrumental trio, consisting of Mrs. George Dempsie and sons Gordon and Alfred. The program is concluded by an operetta, "A Little Bit of Laughter," by eight girls under the direction of Miss Edna B. Towne. WEAF, WBZ, KDKA, KOA and KGO also have exceptionally fine programs for Monday night.

Several new stations and other well-known old ones with increased power for 1925 will be on the air with their opening programs. New Years eve Among these are WOPR, TV compact and WJLD, Milwaukee. Watch for announcements of their programs.

CHANGE FARES FOR STEAMSHIP TRAVEL

All steamship lines have announced a reduction in third class continental round trip excursion rates, according to Henry Reuter, Appleton representative of steamship lines.

Increases have been, however, announced in first, second and cabin rates of straight east and west bound trips, also on third class west bound prepaid tickets. The east-bound third class rate are practically unchanged. The changes went into effect last week.

The reduction in third class continental round trip excursion rates, it is expected, will stimulate ocean traffic especially that drawing on persons of foreign birth who desire to visit their former home and old friends in Europe. Aliens are permitted to reenter the United States by procuring permits at a nominal fee from the immigration bureau at Washington, but application for these permits must be made at least six weeks to two months prior to date of sailing.
